

Dustin T. Duncan

Global Health Equity Scholar | Institutional Architect | University Leader

VISION STATEMENT

Senior Academic Leader in Global Health Equity and Institutional Transformation

- Senior academic leader at a global research university advancing institutional transformation, global engagement, and equity-driven innovation in higher education. My leadership integrates population health science with university governance, legal architecture, and institutional design to strengthen universities as engines of knowledge, equity, and global public impact.

CURRENT POSITION

Columbia University in the City of New York, New York, NY

Mailman School of Public Health

- Associate Dean for Health Equity Research
- Professor of Epidemiology

I lead initiatives to bridge academic research with societal needs, fostering innovation, equity, and strategic growth.

LEADERSHIP AND ACADEMIC HIGHLIGHTS

- Historic milestone as Columbia's first tenured African American male Professor of Epidemiology (2024), advancing inclusive excellence at the institutional level
- Appointed inaugural Associate Dean for Health Equity Research at Columbia University Mailman School of Public Health (2023- Present)
- Secured over $38.6 million as Principal Investigator on external funding research grants, including over $5.8 million for international health equity research
- Published over 300 publications, including three books and over 250 peer-reviewed articles with more than 12,250 citations (h-index: 55)
- Lead investigator on major multinational HIV prevention research initiatives, including groundbreaking studies in New York City and Nairobi, Kenya including the NIH-funded TURNNT Cohort Study and Project TUJUANE studies examining health equity among sexual and gender minorities
- Selected as Emerging Leaders in Health and Medicine Scholar by the National Academy of Medicine (2022-2024)
- Currently directs Columbia's Spatial Epidemiology Lab and maintains active research partnerships with leading institutions globally, including the Kenya Institute of Social Work, University of Nairobi, and major European research centers
- Delivered major distinguished and keynote talks including the Annual Social Epidemiology Lecture at Johns Hopkins University in May 2023 on social epidemiology and health equity
- Developed and implemented the "Health Equity Research Production Model" (Duncan, 2025), including the "Step-Up" mentorship model component
- Award-winning academic leader and mentor, recognized with the 2020 Mentor of the Year

Award from Columbia University Irving Medical Center

SIGNATURE ADMINISTRATIVE INITIATIVES

2025 – Present	Black Professors Study (BPS) Initiative <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Lead the groundbreaking national Black Professors Study (BPS) initiative, advancing workforce and health equity across the U.S. through innovative geospatial analysis and ecological momentary assessments. • Study population health science as well as governance and higher education law, especially as related to diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI), such as legal and policy frameworks governing faculty hiring, promotion, and institutional accountability.
2022 – Present	Writing Accountability Groups (WAGs) – New York University (2022-2025), Columbia University (2025- Present) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Led university-wide, school-wide, center-wide faculty development infrastructure through WAGs for scholarly productivity that increased faculty submissions and acceptances, promoting academic excellence, collaboration, and well-being during and beyond crises. The Columbia University-Wide Faculty Writing Accountability Group Initiative launched in Spring 2026.

- 92% of WAG participants in one WAG evaluation worked on a grant or manuscript during the WAG session and within-person increase in reported grant and paper submissions were observed (Duncan et al., Journal of Faculty Development, In Press).

2014 – Present

Institutional Transformation and Transformative Community–Academic Partnerships

- Developed and applied the Health Equity Research Production Model (HERPM), a globally recognized framework I founded and lead, across projects including the NYC Low-Income Housing Study, Neighborhoods and Health Study and the TURNNT Cohort Study. HERPM integrates community-based participatory methods with rigorous epidemiologic inquiry to advance health equity through shared leadership, equitable authorship and actionable policy impact.

TEACHING EXPERIENCE

As course director, led curriculum innovations that expanded sexual and gender minority (SGM) health, social and spatial epidemiology instruction at Columbia and New York University Abu Dhabi (NYUAD), impacting over 500 students globally.

Primary Course Instruction

Columbia University Mailman School of Public Health (graduate and post-graduate)

2023 – Present

Epidemiologic Theory and Methods in Sexual and Gender Minority Health

- Developed and teach graduate course on epidemiologic methods in SGM health

2020 – 2023

CORE: Social Determinants of Health Unit

- Led core MPH curriculum unit on social determinants of health

2015 – Present

Assessing Neighborhoods in Epidemiology (EpiSummer@Columbia)

- Direct intensive course on neighborhood assessment methods in epidemiology

New York University Abu Dhabi (undergraduate)

2016 – 2017

Connecting Neighborhoods and Health: Introduction to Spatial Epidemiology

- Developed and taught undergraduate course at NYU Abu Dhabi

2017

Social Dimensions of Health

- Taught introductory course on social determinants of health

Selected Guest Lectures

- 2018 – Present Regular invited lecturer at major institutions including:
- Columbia University: Environmental Justice, Sleep Health
 - NYU School of Medicine: Population Health, HIV/STI Epidemiology
 - UNC Gillings School of Public Health: LGBT Population Health
 - University of Chicago: Spatial Epidemiology of HIV

Teaching Assistant Experience

Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health

- 2010 – 2011 Introduction to Spatial Methods for Public Health
- 2009 High Risk Behavior: Epidemiology & Prevention Strategies
- 2008 Society and Health
- 2007 – 2008 Program Planning: Design and Evaluation
